Versata Enterprises Acquires Metatomix, Inc.

Acquisition Diversifies Portfolio With Addition of Semantic Integration Software Solution.

September 7, 2010 — AUSTIN, TEXAS -- Versata Enterprises, Inc. (Versata), a leading provider of enterprise software solutions, announced today the acquisition of Metatomix, Inc. a leading provider of information sharing software solutions for justice and public safety, manufacturing, financial services and life sciences organizations. Metatomix's cutting edge products link data from existing disparate systems to create a common understanding of information across an enterprise. Metatomix software has assisted with criminal investigations, helping solve crimes and catch criminals, proving itself as a major tool for law enforcement and public safety organizations in several states. "The acquisition by Versata provides an outstanding path forward for Metatomix's customers and products," said Jeff Dickerson, CEO of Metatomix. "We expect the acquisition to enable Metatomix to provide customers with a broader set of products and services offerings and to Versata executive Davin Cushman will assume the CEO role at Metatomix. "I am thrilled to be leading Metatomix because of its strong products, engaged customers and the positive impact its solutions provide in public safety. Metatomix software puts critical information in the hands of judges and law enforcement officials so that they can do their jobs more effectively." Cushman continued, "While I'm proud that our cutting edge technology is making counties in Florida, Texas, Georgia, Ohio, and other states safer, I believe it has vast untapped potential for adding value to businesses across industries.
